

6 Current / Pending Support

The work is currently supported by the Media Lab's general industrial research consortia. No Federal, State, or foundation support is presently involved. Under the proposed grant, Hawley will devote approximately 30% of his time, and one assistant (Newell) will devote 45% of his time.

7 Facilities / Equipment

Work will be conducted from the Media Lab at MIT. The Laboratory's resources are well known, and include computer systems labs, electronics engineering, machine shop, and some work in physics and material sciences. Some background information on the Media Lab and its facilities may be found here:

Some site work will be done in international field locations. It is of course necessary to visit possible research sites and develop partnerships with potential collaborators.
